

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Feb. 17, 1993

CONTACT: Mike Freedman
(202) 994-6460

CBS EXECUTIVE EDWARD GREBOW ELECTED TO GW BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Washington, DC -- Edward Grebow, senior vice president for administration, CBS, Inc., has been elected to the Board of Trustees of The George Washington University, Chairman Oliver T. Carr, Jr. announced. Grebow was elected to a three-year-term as a charter member at the board's Feb. 10 meeting.

Grebow, who earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from GW in 1971, began his career as assistant treasurer of Morgan Guaranty Trust Company in New York in 1973. During the next 12 years he rose steadily to become chairman of Morgan Data Services, Inc. (1981-1984) and president of J.P Morgan Leasefunding Corporation. In 1985, he joined The Bowery Savings Bank of New York as executive vice president.

In 1988, Grebow accepted his current position with CBS. As senior vice president for administration, he is responsible for management information systems, facilities, personnel and general administration. He reports directly to Laurence A. Tisch, president and CEO, CBS, Inc.

Grebow's other activities and affiliations include current terms as director, CBS/MTM Studios; director, Theatre Development Fund; and director, Avenue of the Americas Association. He is a former director, Republican Municipal Committee; former director, National Association of Bank Cost Analysis, and former managing director, International Finance N.V. [Curaco, Netherlands]. He has been honored as Alumnus of the Year by the GW New York City Alumni Club.

Located four blocks from The White House, The George Washington University was created by an Act of Congress in 1821. Today, GW is the largest private coeducational institution in the nation's capital. The University offers comprehensive programs of undergraduate and graduate liberal arts study as well as degree programs in medicine, law, engineering, education, business/public administration and international affairs. Each year GW enrolls a diverse population of 19,000 undergraduate, graduate and professional students from all 50 states and 120 countries.

NEWS

OFFICE OF UNIVERSITY RELATIONS • WASHINGTON, D.C. 20052 • (202)994-6460

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Feb. 24, 1993

CONTACT: Nora Kelley
(202) 994-3087

-- MEDIA ADVISORY --

GW HONORS TED TURNER AS CEO OF THE YEAR

School of Business and Public Management Alumni Association to recognize Turner Broadcasting executive at March 16 event

Washington, DC -- R.E. Turner will be recognized as The George Washington University School of Business and Public Management (SBPM) Alumni Association's CEO of the Year for 1993.

The luncheon and presentation ceremony will be held on Tuesday, March 16, from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Marvin Center Ballroom, 800 21st Street N.W. Larry King of CNN's Larry King Live will introduce Turner. Turner will begin his remarks at approximately 1:00 p.m.

"Each year we invite one of the nation's most inspiring and innovative CEO's to share the secrets of their success," said SBPM Alumni Association President Steve Ross. "Their insights spur our colleagues to explore creative and imaginative approaches to business."

Turner, chairman of the board and president of Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. (TBS), began his broadcast career with the purchase of Atlanta's channel 17 in 1970. In 1976 he originated the "superstation" concept, transmitting the station's signal to cable systems nationwide via satellite, paving the way four years later for CNN -- the world's first live in-depth, round-the-clock, all-news television network.

The introduction of CNN was met with great skepticism in the broadcast world, but today Turner's Atlanta-based Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., is the leading supplier of entertainment and news programming for the cable television industry through its ownership of Cable News Network (CNN), CNN Headline News, TBS SuperStation, Turner Network Television (TNT), the Cartoon Network and SportSouth. Its operations also include U.S. and international program syndication and licensing, professional sports and real estate.

-- more --

An active environmentalist, Turner has received numerous civic and industry awards and honors, including being named Time magazine's 1991 Man of the Year. He is also known as a superior yachtsman, having won national and world sailing titles.

The March 16 presentation is sponsored by The George Washington University SBPM Alumni Association. Working in concert with the University's overall goal to broaden the educational experience, the SBPM Alumni Association provides significant opportunities for continuing professional, educational and personal development. These activities are made possible through close cooperation with the SBPM and the University's far-reaching alumni community.

The Alumni Association's prestigious CEO Award is an integral part of SBPM Dean David Fowler's initiative to broaden the scope of the school's interaction with the business community on a local, national and international level. "Turner is the quintessential entrepreneur," says Fowler, former senior partner of KPMG Peat Marwick, who joined GW as Dean in July of 1992. "He has been successful in virtually every enterprise he has undertaken. He is a great role model."

Past award recipients include William McGowan, MCI; John Hechinger, Hechinger's; J.W. Marriott, Jr., Marriott; and Mortimer Zuckerman, U.S. News and World Report.

Members of the media interested in attending the event should contact Nora Kelley at (202)994-3087.

NEWS

OFFICE OF UNIVERSITY RELATIONS • WASHINGTON, D.C. 20052 • (202)994-6460

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Feb. 26, 1993

MEDIA CONTACT: NORA KELLEY
W (202) 994-3087
H (703) 271-8609

-- MEDIA ADVISORY --

GW PROFESSORS AVAILABLE TO DISCUSS GLOBAL BUSINESS ISSUES

How will the Clinton administration's trade policies affect the global marketplace? What business strategies must the U.S adopt to succeed in a global market? What role will the Pacific Rim play in the new economy? What role will Western and Eastern Europe play?

The George Washington University has a number of experts available for commentary and analysis of these and other questions:

F. David Fowler, C.P.A., who is an expert on the Korean business climate and the implications of the new administration's trade policies. Fowler, who is dean of GW's School of Business and Public Management, has just returned from a two-week tour of Korea where he met with leading government officials.
Phone: W (202) 994-6380

Fariborz Ghadar, D.B.A., who is an expert on global competitiveness; international banking and finance; the petroleum industry; and OPEC. Phone: W (202) 994-5981 H (202) 462-1178

Phillip D. Grub, D.B.A., who is an expert on global business, particularly in China, South Korea, Japan, Vietnam and Indonesia; the investment climate in Vietnam; U.S.-Japan and U.S.-Korea trade issues. Professor Grub has just returned from a five-week tour of Asia where he met with leading government officials in Japan, Korea, Indonesia and Vietnam. Phone: W (202) 994-7373
H (703) 920-6533

G. P. Lauter, Ph.D., who is an expert on international business; the economic restructuring of Central and Eastern Europe; the Japanese economy; and U.S.-Japan trade. Phone: W (202) 994-7374

-- 30 --

NEWS

OFFICE OF UNIVERSITY RELATIONS • WASHINGTON, D.C. 20052 • (202)994-6460

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
Feb. 26, 1993

MEDIA CONTACT: Sam Silverstein
(202) 994-6424
Michael Freedman
(202) 994-6463

MEDIA ADVISORY

GW BRANCH OF NIH FEDERAL CREDIT UNION TO BE DEDICATED MARCH 1

Partnership Brings Credit Union to GW Campus

- WHAT: The George Washington University and the National Institutes of Health will jointly open a branch of the NIH Federal Credit Union on the GW campus. The agreement between GW and NIH will bring a full range of financial services to the entire University community.
- WHEN: Ribbon-cutting ceremony
Monday, March 1, 1993
12 noon
- WHERE: GW Branch of the NIH Federal Credit Union
2100 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC

BACKGROUND:

After a competitive selection process, The George Washington University chose the National Institutes of Health Federal Credit Union to open a branch at GW's Foggy Bottom campus to provide low-cost financial services to members of the University community.

The credit union will bring a wide variety of financial services to its members. GW students, faculty, staff and alumni will be able to open savings, checking and certificate accounts, obtain credit cards with moderate interest rates, and arrange for direct deposit services.

In addition to other financial services, the credit union will offer various types of loans, including personal, home equity and guaranteed student loans. Members will be able to make deposits or repay loans through payroll deductions, and will be able to use an Automated Teller Machine (ATM) which will be installed in the GW Marvin Center.

- MORE -

The NIH Federal Credit Union is a member of the National Credit Union Administration, the federal regulatory agency for credit unions. Founded in 1940, the NIH Federal Credit Union had assets of $117 million in 1991.

The credit union's GW location will officially open for business at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, March 2, 1993. Hours will be 7:30 a.m. - 3 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, and 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Fridays.

Media interested in attending the opening should contact Sam Silverstein or Michael Freedman in the GW Office of University Relations at (202) 994-6460.